Introduction

The Substance Use Services Inventory for Travis County, Texas was created in collaboration with the Trauma Services Research Department at Dell Children's Medical Center of Central Texas for the sole purpose of a research project. All efforts were made to be as inclusive as possible of services in this document. This inventory does not constitute an endorsement of the services that are included.

Ideal Components of the Continuum of Care for Behavioral Health in Travis County

The pyramid is divided into four different parts, each part representing a different strategy. The strategies move along the continuum of services; from services directed at the larger population, towards increasing levels of services for individuals with greater need. This model is fluid in that consumers, regardless of their past needs, may move through different parts of the system as their needs change. The goal of the ideal system is to have services available to meet any level of need and to support recovery.
